Report: Tutorial Group Interaction

Date: October 10, 2026

Time: 2:00 PM

Venue: Zoology Laboratory

For: B.Sc. 1st Year Students

An interactive tutorial group session was held today for B.Sc. 1st Year students in the Zoology lab. The main goal of this meeting was to help first semester students learn simple strategies for writing exams and to guide them on university course rules.

Main Discussion Points

1. Exam & Time Management Tips

The tutor Dr. Bovinder Chand shared helpful advice to help students write better exam answers and use their time wisely:

Understanding the Question Paper: Take the first few minutes to read all questions carefully, understand what is asked, and check how many marks each question carries before you start writing.

How to Write Good Answers: Make your answers neat and clear by using simple headings, bullet points, and short definitions. Draw clean, labelled diagrams wherever possible, as these are very important in Zoology.

Managing Exam Time: Divide your total time wisely based on the marks. Do not spend too much time on low-mark questions so that you have enough time for long answers.

Choosing Answer Length: Write long or short answers according to the marks given for each question so that you can finish the full paper on time.

Next Steps & Key Takeaways for Students

1. Practice Timing at Home: Set a timer when solving past question papers to improve your writing speed.
2. Practice Diagrams: Focus on drawing and labelling neat diagrams to score better marks in Zoology.
3. Submit Work on Time: Complete and submit all assignments and practical records on time.
